Troutt seeks mutual court support

By DALE GOWING
Of The Roman Staff

Because of what he calls "inadequate housing" for the two 34th District Court judges, Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt has appealed to the City of Belleville and the townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron for "joint or mutual support" of the court.

Troutt has mailed letters to the mayor and supervisors of the city and townships asking for a meeting "to discuss the means and methods of financing a new court and new judge" in the district.

Because a second judge, Henry Zaborowski, has been added to the district which already houses Judge

James B. Stone, Romulus contends that it cannot afford to shoulder the brunt of the court's financing any longer.

State law requires the largest municipality in a district to take financial responsibility for the operation of its court, that is to provide all funds beyond those obtained through court fines to operate the court.

Romulus is the largest municipality in the 34th district, but with the addition of a second judge the city doesn't feel it will be able to support the court. Zaborowski was elected Nov. 5 to begin Jan. 1.

In his letter to the other four municipalities, Troutt said that "housing hopelessly is inadequate in the present court for two judges," and he urged "joint or mutual support" from the other communities.

Though not required to do so, other municipalities in a district may assist the largest municipality in additional financing of the district court, and Troutt hopes to urge the four to do so.

The 34th District Court is located in an old school building on Eureka Road and is termed too small for two judges.

"The costs of maintaining the court from 1970 to 1975 have increased, but the fines have stayed the same," Troutt said. "Romulus has to set up the court, but we don't have the money."

He added that in a 3-month period ending in September, the court took in $73,107.98 and had expenditures totaling $42,650, leaving a net income of $30,451.

He said Romulus could not charge the other district communities rent for the building, but does charge them "token cleaning costs."

Troutt added that the net income is figured before determining attorneys fees, and that the remaining sum is not enough to pay rent on a new building which will need to be obtained for the two judges.

Each of the other cities and townships receives a percentage of court fees back, and Troutt has suggested that those percentages not be returned unless the court encounters a money surplus.

"All money taken in by the court should remain in the court until it gets underway," he said. "Then, if any money is left over, it would be given back to the communities."

Another way for the court to raise more money would be for the judges to increase their fines, Troutt added.

"As is now, we may have to reach into the taxpayers' pockets in Romulus," he said, indicating a millage levy. "I don't think they (Belleville, Sumpter, Van Buren and Huron) expect the taxpayers of Romulus to pay for the court themselves."

Because of the impending space squeeze with two judges, Troutt suggested a night court could be operated in addition to daytime operations.

State law also says that a township of more than 12,000 in population, such as Van Buren, or city more than 3,200, such as Belleville, may have a court, which means either of those communities could agree to house a second courtroom for Zaborowski.

However, Troutt feels that would be "impractical."

We would have to run a double-court, but they need the same base," he said. "If you split them up you need two staffs. If the courts are together they can use the same people."

He added that one possibility would be for the entire court to move.

School district will ask for renewal of millage

Romulus Community School voters will be asked to approve the renewal of a 9-mill property tax levy in a special election April 14.

The special renewal millage election has been approved by the Romulus Board of Education.

A levy for school operations, approved by the voters in 1970, expires with the collection of the 1974 school property tax.

Romulus School Supt. Robert L. McConeghy, in presenting his election date recommendation, said: "It is imperative that the nine operating mills, which expire with the 1974 winter tax levy, be renewed."

He added that in the 1974-75 school year operating budget the nine mills represent $1,700,000.

McConeghy also told the Board of Education at its recent meeting that not only will it be necessary to renew the nine mills, but the board should ask voters for additional operating millage.

The opening of the new Wick Elementary School in September 1975, North Junior High School and possibly two other new elementary schools in 1976 will require additional millage to staff and operate these facilities, McConeghy said.

"Assuming that the school district's state equalized property valuation (SEV) will increase to $200,000,000 for 1975 tax purposes, each additional mill would raise approximately $200,000," McConeghy added.

The district's current operation tax levy is 27.65 mills per $1,000 of assessed state equalized property valuation.

Jaycees criticize deer trapping

The deer-trapping scheme at Detroit Metropolitan Airport apparently isn't working and airport officials are likely to resort to their original plan of shooting the animals, but in doing so they will have reckon with the Romulus Jaycees.

"If the airport decides to shoot the deer we'll coordinate a massive telephoning campaign to state and federal officials anything else we can do to mobilize the general public," said Jaycee President Phil McNett.

McNett added that the Jaycee membership is in agreement that the Wayne County Road Commission (WCRC) which operates the airport, is not doing everything it can to capture the deer.

The deer, ranging in estimated numbers from 20 to 60, habitate the wooded southern fringe of the airport near Eureka Road, and have been termed a hazard for landing and departing airplanes, since a few reportedly have wandered onto a runway at times. The WCRC announced plans several weeks ago to hunt the deer to rid them from the area, but the plan was met with severe public criticism.

Last week, the WCRC succumbed to the criticism and agreed to let Detroit Zoo employees construct two fenced-in pens in an effort to capture the deer. The deer would then be tranquilized and shipped to other areas of the state.

However, as of yesterday, no deer had been captured. In addition, a vow by WCRC Executive Director James Davey last week "not to risk a single human life for the life of a deer" prompted speculation that capturing efforts soon will be abandoned.

However, McNett and the Jaycees feel the WCRC hasn't done its best in trying to snare the deer.

"We feel that not all ends have been exhausted by the Road Commission," McNett said. "And that the people who are directing it actually are not sincere in their efforts. They build a corral and have a guy sit in a tree watching it, but they should know deer aren't going to come around a thing like that."

"We feel the people have been sold short by the commission's ridiculous efforts."

McNett added that the Jaycees are doubtful that as many as 60 deer exist in the airport.

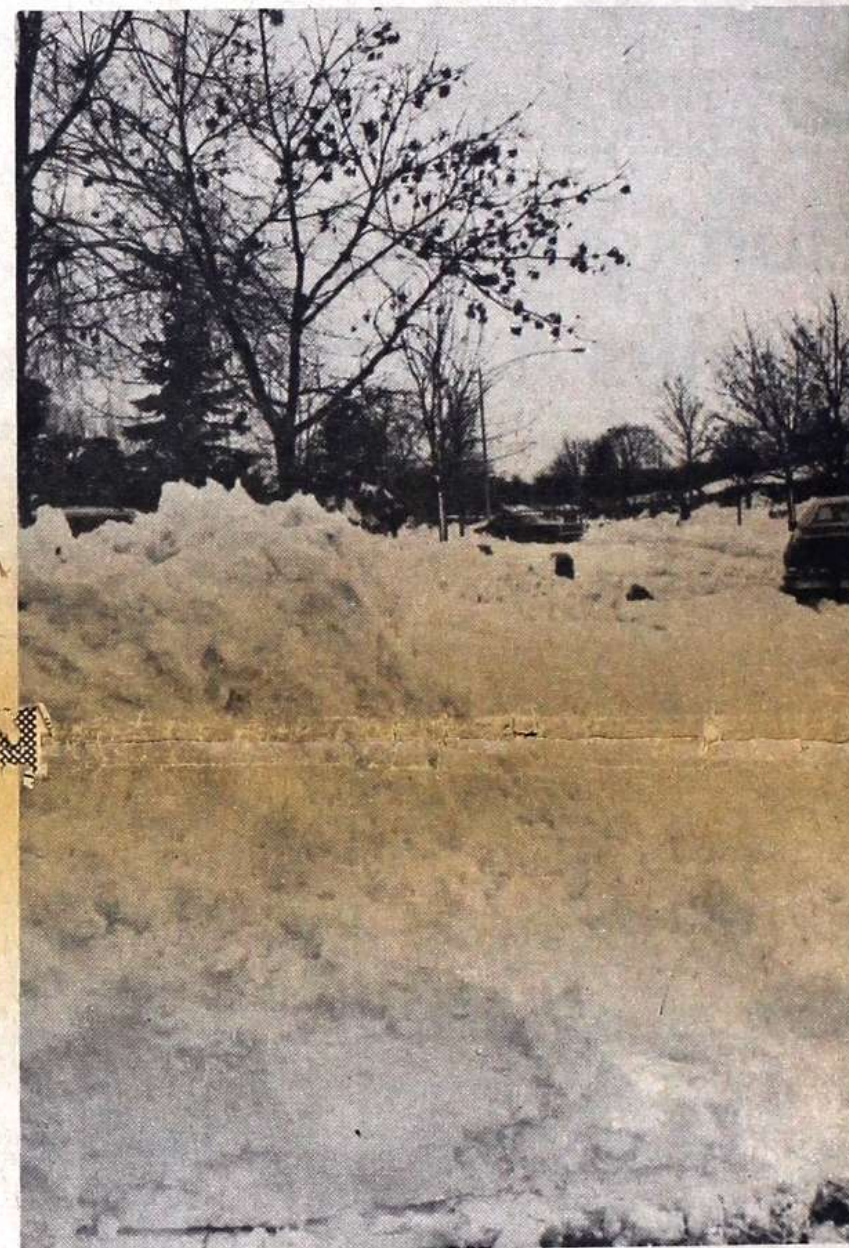

"For that many deer to be there and not be seen is very doubtful," he said. "We feel that if there are 15, there is a lot."

He added that capturing efforts should not be too difficult for such a small number.

One possible method of ridding the airport of the deer, is to assemble a large number of people on the grounds and drive the deer through an opening in the fence, away from the airport and into the surrounding countryside, McNett suggested.

"Many of us are hunters, and we don't feel that hunting the deer or shooting them in a confined area like that would be a proper thing," he said. "It's not sportsmanlike."

The Jaycees asked that letters of response from the public be mailed to the Jaycees at P.O. Box 35, Romulus 48174.

Winter Wonderland?

Many Romulus residents were calling it other things Sunday and Monday as they shoveled, dug and struggled their way out from under the area's biggest snowfall in a decade. A total of 19 inches were reported in Western Wayne County as most schools, businesses and government offices were forced to close.—The Romulus Roman photo.

In Romulus

It's back to normal after historic storm

Things are getting back to normal today after the biggest snowfall in a decade in Western Wayne County caused most schools, businesses and governmental agencies to close.

All classes in Romulus Community Schools were canceled Monday and yesterday and expected to reopen today, after 19 inches of snow blanketed the city on Sunday.

A school district official yesterday said that a decision would be made by 4 p.m. that day whether schools would reopen today. As of press time, no decision had been made.

The official added that the 10 school closings were caused by snow-blocked side roads and school parking lots, making access to school buildings virtually impossible.

The city's only parochial school, St. Aloysius Elementary, also was closed Monday and yesterday, but it was not known if it would reopen today.

The Romulus City Hall closed Monday but reopened yesterday, and last night's scheduled City Council meeting was expected to be held.

Most businesses in the city did not open their doors on Monday either, but normal business activities resumed yesterday for the most part. Takeoffs and departures at Detroit Metropolitan Airport also were suspended for most of Monday.

No deaths were reported in Romulus due to the snowy conditions.

Helping the needy

Romulus Goodfellows will be out in force on the city's street corners Saturday raising money for Christmas packages for area needy families. The Goodfellows will be distributing an Associated Newspapers' Goodfellow Edition in exchange for donations of any size. The newspaper drive begins at 11 a.m. and continues until dusk.

Romulus Goodfellows set day for special edition paper sale

Seeking to better its 1973 $1,000 intake, the Romulus Goodfellows will be out in force Saturday with the annual newspaper drive on street corners throughout the city.

The Goodfellows, who will be handing out 5,000 copies of the Associated Newspapers' Goodfellow to motorists for donations, have set the fund-raising goal at about $1,500, according to Fred Williams, the drive coordinator.

He said donations of any amount from a dime up will be accepted for the newspaper, and that the average donation last year was about $1.50.

The drive will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until dusk on major street corners. Forty Goodfellows will participate.

Donations will be used to assemble Christmas packages and purchase toys and clothing items for needy families. Families wishing to obtain the Christmas packages are asked to call the Romulus City Hall at 941-0666, and ask for Delores Bradley.

On the inside

The extent and duration of Wayne County Sheriff's road patrols in Western Wayne County townships is uncertain despite the recent appropriation of $350,000 for their continuance. See story on Page A-5.

A total of 223 students have been named to the honor roll of South Junior High School in Romulus for academic excellence during the first grading period. See story on Page A-16.

Authority to replace resigning Beyer chief

The Peoples Community Hospital authority (PCHA) will begin a search to replace its administrator of Ypsilanti's Beyer Memorial Hospital.

Allan R. Case, 42, who has held the administrator's position at Beyer Memorial since 1967, is resigning the post in January to take a job as administrator of institutional services at Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Dr. Karl S. Slicka, executive director of the PCHA said: "It's sad for the PCHA to lose such a fine administrator as Case, but it is proud that one of its administrators is chosen to move up in the hospital administration field."

The PCHA operates three other hospitals besides Beyer Memorial. They are Annapolis Hospital in Wayne, Outer Drive Hospital in Lincoln Park and Seaway Hospital in Trenton.

Romulus scout pack names 2 den mothers

Cub Scout Pack 739 of Romulus has made the appointment of two new den mothers and the presentation of various awards to pack members.

The new den mothers are Lorraine Schraeder, who will supervise Den 3, and Marie Sikorski, who will supervise Den 4.

Their appointments were made at the pack's November meeting, when Thanksgiving also was observed with the scouts playing games and Dens 1 and 3 presenting prepared skits.

The December meeting of the pack will be held at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 17, one week early because of Christmas holidays, it was reported.

Awards were presented to the following scouts: Jeff Whitney, Bear badge; Greg Carter, Denner badge; Christopher Schraeder, Assistant Denner badge; Todd Gibbs, Silver Arrow; Greg Carter, 1-year service star; Matthew Percy, Bear badge and Assistant Denner badge; Keith McDermid, Denner badge; Dennis Partington, Denner badge; and Billy Cribbs, Assistant Denner badge.

Also James Holbrook, Bear badge, one Gold Arrow and advanced to Webelos unit of pack; Darren Quinlan, Webelos, Sean Thomas, 1-year service star; William Herring, Denner badge; Ronnie Kovacs, Assistant Denner badge; and Jerry Barwikowski, four Silver Arrows and one Gold Arrow; John Stockman, outdoorsman and sportsman badges; John Percy, citizen, Arrow of Light and advanced to Boy Scouts.

Mike Coatsworth, artist, craftsman and outdoorsman; George Wagasy, athlete; Stan Zimmer, sportsman; Mark Hall, artist, athlete and outdoorsman; Mike Phillips, outdoorsman and sportsman badges; and Keith Watts, scientist and showman badges.

Joseph Cusmeno, district training chairman, was on hand to present Diane Jarvis with a pin and certificate for 2-years of service in scouting. Mrs. Jarvis presently is den leader coach.

Services held for oldest resident

The City of Belleville's oldest resident, Miss Margaret Elsie Hope, has passed away.

Miss Hope, of 374 Main Street, Belleville, died last Wednesday in the Lutheran Retirement Home in Ann Arbor. She was 98.

Funeral services for Miss Hope were held Saturday at Roberts Bros. Funeral Home in Belleville with the Rev. Joy E. Arthur, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment services were held at the Hillside Cemetery in Belleville.

The Order of Eastern Star Services for Miss Hope were held at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the funeral home.

Miss Hope was born on April 9, 1876 in Belleville. She was the daughter of Richard and Angeline Elsie (Carpenter) Hope. She worked for many years at People's State Bank of Belleville and was a former contributor of news to The Belleville Enterprise.

Miss Hope served many active years in the civic and social activities of the community. Her counseling often was sought by her many friends in the years prior to her retirement.

Miss Hope's survivors include one nephew, Stuart Hope of Racine, Wis.; and three nieces: Louise New of Bay City, Texas; Ruth Inglis of Houston, Texas and Evelyn Beaulieu of Houston, Texas.

Future 'brightens' for Thrift Shop

If an adequate parcel of vacant land can be obtained, the future of the Romulus Thrift Shop might not be so bleak after all.

Directors of the Thrift Shop, which will operate in the Romulus Community Schools Special Services Building on Washington Street until Jan. 1, are eyeing a 2-story house owned by the school district which has been advertised for donation "to any interested and responsible person."

If the shop could locate a parcel of land, obtain the house and move the structure to the site, the Thrift Shop could

Omarzu assumes job

This first week on the job for Romulus' new community assistance director is one of "feeling out" the city's needs for and capabilities of using available federal grant money.

"It's going to take me a little while to come up with some definite plans for Romulus," said Charles Omarzu, who Monday began his job of applying for federal money for parks, roads, drains, housing and numerous other city programs. "I've got some ideas and I have to do some checking on them and feel the situation out."

Omarzu, 40, who was a graduate assistant instructor at Wayne State University doing work on a doctorate in political science before taking the Romulus job, said detailed plans for Romulus' acquisition of the money have not been worked out yet, but he added that his efforts probably would not be concentrated just on obtaining grant money.

He said the plight of abandoned houses in the city, many of them owned by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, would be a major point of emphasis.

Mayor Terry L. Troutt, who appointed Omarzu to the post, said the Romulus resident will study the possibility of rehabilitating the boarded-up and sometimes vandalized houses, then submit a plan for it to the city.

Most of the houses are in the Meadows Subdivision. Troutt has said that $2.5 million in federal money will become available to cities on Jan. 1, and that Romulus "deserves to receive its proper share of the total."

Omarzu added that "Romulus certainly can put the grant money to good use."

The Navy veteran, a father of two children, attended a 2-day conference in Chicago last week for grant officers throughout the country. He said its purpose was "to acquaint the state and local officials with the grant guidelines" set down by the federal government.

Omarzu noted the formation of Federal Regional Councils to act as the regional grant disbursement offices throughout the country. He said the formation of the offices would expedite the acquisition of grants by cities since the cities would not have to apply through the government's Washington D.C. offices.

As we see it

Helping hands need help, too

If it wasn't for the Romulus Community Schools, the Helping Hand Thrift Shop probably wouldn't have had a start and such a fruitful and rewarding life. But now those helping hands need some help themselves.

Because of the booming growth in the Romulus Community Schools, the district no longer can allow the Thrift Shop to use rooms in the district's Special Services Building on Washington Street in Romulus. In fact, operators of the shop must vacate the building by Jan. 1. And they have nowhere to go.

The shop, which has had a rich background, not in finances, but in rewards from helping others, has snowballed from a facility meant to serve students going to Romulus schools. Now residents from throughout Western Wayne County use the shop. They go there, find articles of clothing or household items, and their lives are made richer through the charity and help of others.

Helping Hand Thrift Shop operators have asked Romulus Mayor Terry L. Troutt and the Romulus City Council to find room for them in a city building so that the work and the helping could go on. But the mayor said he could find no room for the shop.

The only possible space for the shop would be in the old Romulus Department of Public Works garage. In order to facilitate the shop, the garage would have to be remodeled. And Troutt said the city does not have the money for the necessary remodeling.

Although the school district has been very cooperative with the shop and has allowed it to use a couple of rooms in the Special Services Building for the past few years, its building is overcrowded. New schools are in the planning stages.

If the school district has no room, the city says it doesn't have any room and unless a local church finds the room, the Helping Hand Thrift Shop is going to have to look elsewhere to move its facilities. And the elsewhere may be outside of the City of Romulus.

Although Thrift Shop operators are not against moving outside of the city, they feel that the greatest need for their services are in Romulus. What they are afraid of is that Romulus officials do not understand the important services they are providing and that is why the city has been unresponsive to the shop's needs.

"The city may be unaware of our needs," one shop operator said. "But all we can do is hope and pray someone can help us."

Is there any facility in the City of Romulus that can accommodate the Helping Hand Thrift Shop? Are there any churches that have spare rooms they are not using? Does the city have someplace to put the center?

Operators of the shop only can hope and pray. And they are asking for your prayers, too.

The Helping Hand Thrift Shop has assisted many Romulus residents; it has been effective, and it would be a shame to let such an organization leave the City of Romulus or be desolved because of lack of support.

The shop always has had the support of many volunteers...many churches and organizations.

We urge the city to evaluate the effectiveness of the Helping Hand Thrift Shop...and we urge the city in some way to help the helpful organization.

Waiting for new year

Legislature remains inactive this year

By BOB BERG

Enterprise - Roman Lansing Bureau Chief

There is a mood of transition about the Michigan Capitol these days.

The Legislature is here for a lame duck session, but it isn't really doing that much. Gov. Milliken is off on a vacation which will end after Thanksgiving.

The focus is on next year, a year which will see a major shift in the Legislature. Both parties already have picked their leaders for the session which will start in January. In both chambers both parties will have new leadership.

Committee assignments are being divided up, particularly in the Senate where Democrats will take control after eight years of Republican rule. The Democrats organized themselves with a minimum of effort and parceled out committee assignments which kept nearly everyone happy.

Republicans face the problem of being out of power and dividing up minority positions which will see former chairmen now out of power.

In the Senate office space is being redistributed with Democrats taking the big, more plush offices and Republicans looking forward to moving to smaller offices. Some 25 to 30 Republican employees in the Senate will be out of work Jan. 1 and have little hope to latch onto another job in the Capitol.

Rep. William Fitzgerald (D-Detroit), who was just another member of the House Democratic caucus, is putting together the lines of power through which he will oversee the Senate as Democratic leader.

In the House, Rep. Bobby D. Crim (D-Davison) is getting ready to take over the speakership with the stepping down of William Ryan.

Rep. Dennis Cawthorne (R-Manistee) is getting ready to take over the Republican caucus and make some changes in staff.

In the governor's office some changes are expected in the staff as he begins another 4-year term. Several key members of the staff either definitely have decided to leave or actively are considering the possibility. Things will develop there more quickly after Milliken returns Dec. 1.

The main questions facing the Legislature immediately are implementing the repeal of the sales tax on food and drugs and making adjustments to the budget to make up for lost revenue. Already there is talk about the absolute certainty of an income tax increase next year to make up for the lost revenue.

Lawmakers who had backed the repeal balked when they saw a list of proposed budget cuts designed to keep the budget balanced through June 30. The tax increase may come sooner than anyone thinks possible at the moment.

The old year still must be played out, but senators and representatives who won't be back in January already are losing interest. And those who will be back in new, more important jobs are preoccupied with the future, not the present.

Add to that the normal sense of let up which comes with the approach of the holiday season and you have a mood of transition, of preoccupation with things other than the present.

Everyone knows the new year will bring big changes and most of those changes already are known. It's just a matter of waiting for Jan. 1 to arrive. The current ball game is about over and everyone is waiting till next year.

Senator relates plight of industry back home

EDITOR'S NOTE: Michigan Sen. Robert P. Griffin addressed himself to the grave problem this state is facing as he spoke before the U.S. Senate on Nov. 21. A portion of the text he presented on the auto industry follows: "The Auto Industry, and hundreds of thousands of auto related jobs are in trouble, and that spells serious trouble for the economy of the nation as a whole.

"If economic lessons of the past teach anything, it is that Michigan's problems today will be the country's problems tomorrow, unless decisive action is taken now to change the course of events.

"I have no desire to be a prophet of gloom and doom — but I feel very strongly that we must recognize the gravity of the situation in the auto industry, and the danger it poses to every single American in the nation. I hope I won't be just a voice crying in the wilderness.

"Consider these stark facts:
— Automobile sales during the first 60 days of 1975 model year have plummeted when compared to 1974.

— Such trends translate into a sales year of less than seven million vehicles — down about one-third from last year's slumping market — and far below record year of 1973 when 11.8 million were sold.

— By Christmas an estimated 150,000 auto workers will be unemployed — or about 20 percent of the total industry work force.

— That means thousands of additional workers in auto related industries also face the same grim prospects.

— While we continue to hear expressions of concern about high profits in the oil industry, not much attention has focused on the 62 percent decline so far this year in auto industry profits.

"In other words, the auto industry and all who depend upon it are in a recession and now face the prospect of a depression.

"As a senator from Michigan, naturally I have a special concern for the welfare of hundreds of thousands of workers in my state whose jobs depend on the state's most important industry. "But the time is long past — if indeed it ever existed — when the rising problems of this industry could be dismissed as the problems of just one state.

"Detroit is known as the Motor City and Michigan as the Motor State, but, even more significantly, the United States is the motor nation. "What can be done to relieve the plight and improve the prospects of those whose jobs depend on the auto industry?

"First and most obviously — actions which help to restore the health of the economy as a whole also will help to restore the health of the auto industry.

"If and when inflation eases, and consumer confidence returns, the economy will rebound from the current recession; auto-related jobs.

"The clear responsibility of Congress is to move now, to act. And a good place to begin is with those proposals already laid before the Congress by the President.

The facts

Recession signs dot economic landscape

By STAN OPOTOWSKY

Enterprise-Roman Special Columnist

The administration in Washington still cannot make up its mind whether we are headed into a recession.

That's sort of like watching your house float away and wondering if there might be danger of a flood.

The truth of the matter is that the sure signs of recession dot the economic landscape, and they are increased in both number and intensity every day.

There's scarcely a day that some major plant does not announce employee layoffs . . . mass layoffs.

Small businesses are closing down in record numbers.

Mortgage foreclosures are at a peak not reached since the great depression of the 1930s.

Bill collection agencies are getting more delinquent accounts than ever, and are having more difficulty securing even partial payments.

Furthermore, the people who are keeping their jobs are not getting the advantages they should.

The one good thing about a recession should be the end of inflation but, alas, the price index goes up right along with the unemployment index, leaving the American people with all of the bad and none of the good in their current economy.

What to do?

In the first place, the national priorities should be clear. Inflation is bad but recession is worse and depression is much worse.

The family that must eliminate most pleasures and comforts in order to squeeze basic food and housing costs out of the paycheck is, after all, much better off than the family which has no paycheck.

But, delicate though it is, there is scant reason why the administration — once it confesses to the existence of a recession — cannot attack both economic enemies at the same time.

The American people do demand a lot. They want to maintain the world's highest standard of living. But they generally are willing to work for it.

The answer could well be in productivity. There is no reason to ask the American worker to earn less. But there is legitimate reason to ask him to turn out more for the same pay.

There must be double effort to achieve this. The unions must be willing to not only permit increased production for the same pay, but to encourage it. The managements must be willing to buy the machinery and put forth the sales efforts, an outlay of expense which could well cut short-term profits but certainly produce long-term gains.

But none of these things can be done without government leadership. No union will volunteer to be the first to produce more. No company will volunteer to cut short-term profits on sheer speculation.

MUSIC TEACHER — Appointed as teacher of the reinstated stringed instrument program for the elementary grades at Van Buren Public School District is Nancy Haynes of Ann Arbor. Shown with her violin, Miss Haynes holds a bachelor of music degree and currently is working on her master of music degree at the University of Michigan School of Music.

String classes are reinstated

The stringed instrument program is to be reinstated in the Van Buren Public School District, according to School officials.

The program's reinstatement will begin at the elementary level starting with the second semester of the current school year, they said.

Appointed by the school district's administration as the new elementary string teacher is Nancy Haynes of Ann Arbor.

Miss Haynes said the string program will be open to all fourth graders and to any interested fifth and sixth graders.

A vigorous recruiting program will begin with testing. The tests results will be used as an aid in understanding the musical abilities and needs of the students. It also will help in identifying and encouraging those children with high musical potentials, Miss Haynes added.

Born and raised in Ann Arbor, Miss Haynes began studying the violin in the fifth grade through the music program in Ann Arbor Schools. She recently received her bachelor of music degree from the University of Michigan School of Music where she currently is working on her master's.

She is a member of the Flint Symphony Orchestra and has taught private violin and viola lessons in the Ann Arbor area.

Nursery storage given by students

The Oak Brooke Nursery in Romulus now has a storage facility for nursery toys and related equipment thanks to Romulus Senior High School students.

The storage facility consists of a large cabinet made by students participating at the woodshop program at the high school.

Accepting the storage cabinet for the nursery was Linda St. Dennis, resident consultant at the nursery.

Miss St. Dennis added that the Romulus Community School District has loaned these of some kindergarten chairs to the nursery. The nursery was set up for the benefit of residents in the Oak Brooke Subdivision.

For Pack 1071

Willow Run tour highlights month

A tour of Willow Run Airport, a rocket derby race and the presentation of awards were among the highlights of November activities of Cub Scout Pack 1071 sponsored by the First United Methodist Church of Belleville.

The Willow Run Airport tour included a trip to the Chrysler Corp. hanger and an opportunity to go through the company's Grumman I and Grumman II aircraft.

The Cub Scouts visited the airport's control tower to see aircraft operating on and near the airport much as the controllers in the tower see the planes. The scouts also were given a rundown on the equipment in the tower used by the controllers and a brief description of how airplanes are controlled.

Topping off the day for the scouts and some of their families was a flight in a Cessna 172. The airplane ride took the scouts over the City of Belleville and most of the scouts were able to see their homes from the air. For some of the scouts, it was their first time in an airplane and all reported an enjoyable time.

The November meeting of the pack was held in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church. Den 6 conducted the opening ceremonies and Den 6 and Den 7 and the Webelo unit of the pack were presented awards for their summer activities.

The following Webelos received awards: Kevin Butzin, outdoorsman and sportsman badges; P.J. Maschek, outdoorsman and sportsman; David Mercer, outdoorsman; and Eddie Fletcher received his colors and Webelo book as he joined the ranks of the Webelos. Cub Scouts receiving awards were: Steve Forgel, Bobcat badge; Clay Hartwell, Wolf badge; Peter Dodge, flag; Frank Broome, Wolf badge; Gold Arrow and two Silver Arrows; Eddie Fletcher, Bear badge and Gold Arrow; Richard Schroeder, Bobcat badge.

One-year service stars were presented to Kevin Bourdeau, Tim Gentile, Guy Levesque, Jeff Marsh, Brock Nigg, Tim Center, Mingo Koss and David Wertz. A 2-year service star was presented to Mary Posegay.

Den 7 conducted the closing ceremonies of the meeting. Following this the pack's first rocket derby race was held.

The final heat had Eddie Fletcher's Red, White and Blue; Rich Schroeder's Silver Streak; and Joey Moon's Red and Blue vehicle finishing in that order.

Fletcher received a gold medal for first place; Schroeder received a silver medal for second place; and Moon received a bronze medal for third place. Don Rouiller received a medal for the best rocket design.

The winners of the rocket derby race were judged by Ed Hoff and Jim Pollard.

Future of township patrols remains open despite funding

Although the Wayne County Board of Commissioners has appropriated $350,000 for continuation of sheriff's road patrols in Western Wayne County townships, questions about the extent and duration of these services still remain.

The $350,000 approved in the 1974-75 county budget is $117,000 less than the amount allocated last year. At issue is whether present services should be curtailed to stretch the allocation throughout a full fiscal year, or whether the present level of service is to be maintained until whenever the funds are depleted.

During a recent meeting of the county Ways and Means Committee, committee chairman John Barr was authorized to appoint a special subcommittee to recommend a solution by Dec. 31.

Barr said the subcommittee will consist of himself and commissioners George F. Killeen and Jarrette Simmons. He also will invite representation from the sheriff's department and the deputies union bargaining agent, local 101.

Barr added that the subcommittee will report to the full board within two weeks and that "we hope that the full board will have resolved this issue by Dec. 31."

The same subcommittee also will make recommendations on the budget of the sheriff's marine patrol division, which is authorized to maintain present services throughout the year, contingent upon two-thirds reimbursement from the state.

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

Member By Invitation ONSM National Selected Morticians

HAROLD REDISKE, JR. — DIRECTORS

Do you remember the song hit, "The world is waiting for the sunrise"? It was a beautiful song. The connotation of the song is more appropriate today than when it was written. In a bit of nostalgia, think back for example, of perceptions of the past, learning the fundamentals of satisfaction and enjoyment, of achievement, growing steadily in knowledge of the world that was yours to keep - and to help others as well as yourself. In contrast, in this difficult, complex era of today, people stand with bated breath, witnessing crime in its intensity, muddled morals, obscenity in common use.

Yes indeed - many, many people today are "waiting for the sunrise" of inspiration, yearning for a surcease of worry and doubt. Waiting for a sunrise of cleaner, brighter, happier days as the evening shadows fall. And, as they wait, they KNOW life is really NOT an impersonal thing. They KNOW this is NOT a time for hopelessness, but rather a time for rededication to The One who can and will turn a sunset into sunrise.

WITH EASE — Clearing the outstretch arms of two Ypsilanti defenders, Belleville's senior guard Walt Easley (22) banks in a left-handed hook shot which netted him two of his game-high 15 points during last week's season opener. Belleville jolted the visiting Braves 65-64 to launch the season with a key victory.

Tigers start off with win

By TOM MOORADIAN
Sports Editor

"An outstanding victory." That's what second year Belleville High basketball coach Tom Niemi labelled his Tigers' 65-64 opening game triumph over Ypsilanti last week.

"What else is there to say?" asked Niemi. "Our boys did an outstanding job on them, especially on defense. Our man-to-man defense was near flawless.

We allowed them only 54 shots."

THOUGH Ypsi made 26 of them for 48 percent, the Braves couldn't stop a balanced Belleville attack which included four players in double figures.

Belleville's All-Area cager, Mel Abraham and Walt Easley each had 15 points, Walt's younger brother, Dennis, chipped in with 14 and Ernie Thornsberry accounted for 13.

Enterprise Roman Sports

A PANAX PUBLICATION

Page A-6 Wednesday, December 4, 1974

Belleville trailed most of the opening half. The Tigers lagged behind 19-14 at the conclusion of the first period and 37-30 at the half.

THORNSBURY and

Abraham led the surging back in the third stanza as they drilled in five points apiece to cut the Ypsi lead by four points, 50-47. Abraham continued his scoring in the final eight minutes as he counted three more baskets, including a jumper which put the Tigers ahead 62-61. Thornsberry's free throw widened the margin by a basket, including a jumper which put the Tigers ahead 62-61. Thornsberry's free throw widened the margin by a basket, 63-61.

Then, with 11 seconds left Ypsi's Scott Davis was fouled and made the first of two free throws, turning it into a 63-62 ball game but Walt Easley was awarded a charity after hauling down the rebound after Davis' second shot.

Easley made both ends of a one-and-one, putting the game out of reach. Davis however provided some last second excitement when he hit a jumper at the buzzer.

DAVIS and John Butler each had 14 points for the losers while Ken Robinson sank 12 and Ken Ely sank 10.

Both teams had their share of problems at the free throw line. The Tigers hit on nine of 24 shots as compared to Ypsilanti's 12 of 21.

"The boys also did an excellent job on the boards," remarked Niemi. "We outrebounded them 58-43 and they had superior height than we did."

Leading the assault on the boards were Dennis Easley who snared 17, Thornsberry had 18 while Abraham had 12. One interesting stat that the Tiger mentor pointed out was that his team picked up 36 offensive rebounds, usually against a team like Ypsilanti.

After meeting a Plymouth Canton contingent last night, Belleville turned its thoughts to Suburban 8 Conference competition. The Tigers will open the conference campaign at Redford Union.

Redford Union beat a Southfield quintet 64-60 for its first test of the season.

Niemi said of Redford Union, that it is an extremely tall team that has a line made up of players 6-foot-8, 6-foot-7 and 6-foot-4.

"They are big with one a quick guard who can make the team click," said Niemi. "R.U. is also very physical on the boards."

Flat Rock ruins Huron coach's opening game

There's a changing of the guards, of sorts, at New Boston Huron. And it's all for the good. Lee Goodney, that is.

Goodney, a veteran cage coach, has replaced Andy Herman as the Chiefs' top cage strategist. And, after two games, the Chiefs are still waiting to present their new coach with his first win.

Huron bowed to a sharpshooting Riverview 65-47 in their nonleague opener last Tuesday, then lost its Huron Conference debut 74-60 to Flat Rock Friday night.

"We played our game in the first half," said Goodney. THAT'S HOW the Huron coach summed up his team's loss to Flat Rock. The Chiefs led by junior Scott Bertin, eked out a 14-11 first period advantage and stayed in front 34-27 at the half.

However, Flat Rock's 6-foot-2 pivotman Mark Clum combined with Charlie Irwin to spark a third period rally that erased the Chiefs' lead. The Rocks took over, 52-49, then went on to outscore their visitors 23-11 in the final stanza to spoil Goodney's league coaching debut.

Three Huron players hit in double figures. Bertin wound up with 19, Keith Frazier added 12 and Don Bennett counted 10 points.

Clum strolled off the floor with the game's individual scoring honors, cashing in nine field goals and seven free throws for 25 points. Irwin had 19 while John Lewis collected 16.

The Chiefs looked impressive at the free throw line where they made eight of 10. Flat Rock countered with 16 of 25 charities and 29 off 66 from the field as compared to 26 of 58 by Huron's gunners.

The Bulldogs, coached by Nick Coso, wrapped up the season as Great Lakes Conference co-champions. Turrentine, 6-0 and 200 pounds, was back-up linebacker behind senior John Sonntag. Sonntag's graduation will give Turrentine a shot at starting next year for the Bulldogs.

Cass Tech captures Romulus tourney title

Detroit Cass Tech celebrated the holidays with the second annual Romulus Thanksgiving Basketball Tournament trophy.

Cass, one of the traditional powers in the Detroit Public School League, jolted Romulus 68-47 last Tuesday to capture the invitational trophy.

"I felt we did a good job on them defensively," said Romulus Coach Jesse Meriweather, "however, we didn't run like we know how to offensively. That was our problem."

CASS WORKED its way to an 18-12 first period lead and never relinquished the advantage as the Detroiters outscored their hosts 14-9 and 18-8 in the second and third periods, respectively. Michael Morrison, who paced Romulus to an 89-69 victory over Willow Run in the first round of the tournament, came back with 10 field goals and four free throws for 24 points in the final round.

MORRISON'S 24 points gave him a share of the game's individual scoring honors. William Mayfield, Cass's 6-foot-6 center also dumped in nine field goals and sank six free throws for 24 points.

Cass also had Darryl Perry in double figures. He chipped in with 16.

Cass annihilated Detroit Southwestern 82-49 in their tuneup for the championship.

Romulus's next test in against an always tough Ann Arbor Huron.

"The Ann Arbor teams have traditionally been excellent ones," said Meriweather, "we're going to have to play much better on offense and hold our turnovers down to a minimum to beat them."

World record at his feet

Kevin Kitze, the 14-year-old Garden City distance runner who had sense enough to come out of the rain, may own the world marathon record for his age group and not know it.

Anyway, that's the way it looks in the 1974 Marathon Handbook, a World Publications.

Kitze, a ninth grader at Cambridge Junior High - when that city's school district isn't on strike - was clocked over the gruelling 26 miles, 385 yards course in Grand Valley, recently in 2:41.43 - that's two hours, 41 minutes and 43 seconds, folks.

And, according to the marathon publication which is printed in California, the previous best by a 14-year-old was registered by Dennis Wilson (USA) in a 2:43.37.

"WE HAVE BEEN TRYING to contact the people in California for confirmation," said Art Kitze, Kevin's father. "But, so far we have been unsuccessful.

"However, if the publication is correct, then Kevin could be the world record holder for his age group. And that's truly some accomplishment."

Kevin is the younger brother of Art Kitze who recently captured the No. 1 berth on our All-Area cross country team. Art is a senior at Garden City East High, when the teachers aren't at strike there. He has been one of the top distancemen in the area, Northwest Suburban Conference and state for nearly three years.

KEVIN HAD the satisfaction of beating "big brother" at the marathon as Art trailed the durable 14-year-old by 1:57, finishing in 2:43.40.

When did all of this running begin for the Kitzes?

"Well, the boys played little league football, baseball and hockey but they seemed to excel in the distance running events the best," said the boys' father. "I have tried to guide them that way.

"And running seems to come natural to Kevin," continued the boys' father, "he never hardly warms up for a race, in fact, he has never been sick, late or absent from school."

Kitze Sr. is a tool room leader for Robotron Corp. in Southfield and a Garden City High (1956) graduate. Though he never competed in track, he lettered in golf.

"Do you know that there were more than 513 runners who competed in the meet in Saginaw and it was well-organized," said Kitze.

What plans do the Kitzes have in the future.

"Well, the boys run 10 miles every day. Kevin, in fact runs from Garden City to Wayne to get your paper."

Now that's a type of runner we like around here.

Dear Mr. Mooridian,

I know this may be an unusual letter to ask you to print, but I feel and I'm sure many other parents will feel the same way that give credit where credit is due, and it is surely due to the Belleville Cougars directors, coaches, etc.

This was and is my feelings about this fine organization;

When my 9 year old son decided in August to play Little League Football, as a non-understanding Football Mother, I said YEEKS!

I didn't know a Touchdown from a boa constrictor, but the desire in his eyes was more than his Father or I could say NO to.

So with shoulder and knee pads and a solid helmet to protect his head off he trudged to learn the game of football, and checking to see if my Blue Cross was paid, my fears of broken legs and arms took control of me.

But the Belleville Cougars coaching staff put the boys through rigorous physical training, preparing them for field contact, and this training resulted in very few minor injuries.

The teams took shape, and thus knocked a few teams out of shape, much to the delight of their parents.

They were out for victories and with a win in their belts they rode the waves of glory. A loss was a renewed desire to try harder for the next win.

Our son has participated in many various activities but I must say to all those connected with the Belleville Cougars Football, this is not one of the finest, it is the FINEST organization any boy and his family could be a part of.

An although I still don't know much about football. I do know that this sports organization is definitely something that I will encourage not only my son but any boy with a desire to learn the game of football to become part of.

This has been a wonderful experience Thank You Cougars. Dianna McDaniel

Belleville cager playing for NMU

Former Belleville High cager Mike Garland will be wearing a Northern Michigan University basketball uniform when the Wildcats open up their season this week.

Garland, a 6-foot-1, 175 physical education major scored in double figures in all 13 games he played with the junior varsity squad. He had a game high 22 points and averaged 14 points, winding up his team's Most Valuable Player at Belleville High.

"Mike is 'Mr. Hustle' on our squad," said head coach Glenn Brown. "He likes to play both ends of the court and has fine leadership qualities.

"We red-shirted him last year and he's worked hard on his shooting, ball handling and passing. I think he's very close to making a fine contribution."

MHSAA shuffles sites

The Michigan High School Athletic Association shuffled the district basketball tournament sites and some of the teams will be heading in opposite directions than they have been accustomed to travelling over the past few years.

Though Wayne Memorial will join Belleville at Ypsilanti, Westland John Glenn, a traditional rival in that suit, has been pitted with area powers at Livonia Churchill.

Churchill has coveted a district playoff but, unfortunately, the MHSAA may have condescended one year too late. Last year Coach Pat Montangano's Chargers lost only two games, they have dropped one already.

JOINING the host Churchill, and John Glenn, will be Garden City East, Garden City West, Inkster Cherry Hill and Detroit Chadsey.

And all of the local powers have outstanding teams this season.

Meanwhile, back in Ypsilanti, the Braves will also have on hand Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer, and Monroe to complete the entries.

ROMULUS again was awarded a district tournament site, and the defending champ will have to defend its title against the likes of Detroit Cass Tech, a team that defeated the hosts recently in the second annual Romulus Thanksgiving Invitational Tournament. Cass will be joined by Northwestern, Southgate, Trenton and Wyandotte-Roosevelt.

Southfield will have the two Plymouth high schools - Salem and Canton - in its district plus Farmington and Northville to fill the bill.

Livonia Franklin, the defending district and regional champ, will travel to cross-town rival, Stevenson, to defend its title.

3 top '100'

Michigan State had three backs go over the 100-yard mark in rushing in its 19-10 win over Indiana. The leader was tailback Rich Baes with 158, followed by quarterback Charlie Baggett with 151 and fullback Levi Jackson with 127.

North honors 150 athletes

Over 150 young athletes were given recognition for their accomplishments and contributions to sports and athletics at Belleville North Junior High School.

The athletes were recognized for their feats at a recent sports assembly.

Special recognition went to the cross country team, coached by Gordon Mattingly, for winning the Junior High School Invitational Meet, and the Ninth Grade Football team, coached by Paul Druker and Ken Palmer, for winning the West Suburban League Championship.

Eighth Grade football awards were presented by coaches David Smith and Rodney Hosman. Coach Wandella Devers handed out awards to members of the Girls' Basketball Team. Miss Devers and Nina Genco introduced members of the Cheerleading squads.

Mobile home residents seeking representation

A group of residents living at the Belle Villa Mobile Home Estates, located at 955 Sumpter Road, Belleville, are formulating a committee to represent residents in the handling of complaints regarding operation of the trailer park.

At a meeting conducted at the Van Buren Township Hall last Wednesday, with a representative of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association a petition to form such a committee was initiated.

Approximately 40 residents of the trailer park were in attendance at the meeting which was scheduled to air residents' complaints regarding a recent rent hike, to become

Bob Meyers, president of the Michigan Mobile Homeowners Association, detailed the aims and purposes of the association to the trailer court residents and urged a greater attendance at another meeting tentatively scheduled for Dec. 8. The site of this meeting will be announced later.

A park resident and association member, who asked that her name not be used for fear of reprisals, said it was necessary for between 75 per cent and 100 per cent of the park residents to attend the meeting before any action is to be taken by the association.

What can you really afford to buy? There was a time when weekly income was considered to be a sort of guide, but that was before families were making payments on one or two automobiles, a color television, and a swimming pool. Credit extension has become a way of life for all, yet, you may be surprised to learn that there is still a choice within your price range. Costs run higher the closer you get to metropolitan cities, because land is scarcer. Newly developing outlying areas offer more for the money since land is cheaper and building is being done in quantity. It pays to look around.

And it pays to seek the professional help of the knowledgeable people at NORWOOD REALTORS, 898 S. 38 enter hospitals for care

Thirty-eight Western Wayne County residents recently found it necessary to check into either Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti or Belvil Community Hospital in Belleville for various surgical and medical care.

Entering Beyer for surgery were Belleville residents Alvin Huffman of Denton Road, Mrs. George Beavers of Marlowe, Mrs. Robert Thomas of Martinsville Road, Mrs. Robert Memering of Denton Road and Teresa Koski of Montague.

Admitted to Beyer for medical care were Belleville residents Richard E. Leach of Carmel and Kathy Szarez of Elwell Road.

Entering Belvil for surgery were Belleville residents Susan Estermyer of West Huron River Drive, Brent Russ of Sumpter Road and Joyce Benedetti of Rustic Lane; and Ypsilanti residents Carl Alexander of Fox, Melinda Parker of Russell Court, Teresa Taylor of West Cross, Wanda Alex of South Hamilton, Opal Elliott of Garland, Veda Hesterly of Hawkins, Jimmy Rhodes of MacArthur and Ulis Warren of Holmes Road.

Also Alice McCoy of Delaware, Janice McMillan of East Michigan Avenue, JoAnne Stafford of Elder, Jeffery Mullins of Clark Road, JoAnne Ingram of Woodcreek Court, Orville McMillan of East Michigan Avenue, Thelma Miller of Aveline Avenue and Sadie Farmer of Kennedy Avenue.

Admitted to Belvil for medical treatment were Belleville residents Mary Steele of Elwell Road, Mae Blain of Belleville Road, Casimir McIniewicz of Columbia Avenue, Norman Florance of Potter Drive, Charles Simmonds of Jackson, Michael Morse of Rustic Lane, Donald Marken of Van Born, Shafter Roberts of Savage Road and Kathryn Januszyk of Sumpter Road.

Also Ypsilanti residents Lana Winkelman of Villa Drive, Geneva Rogers of Campbell and Marie Mullins of Pageant.

In addition, five Belleville couples became proud parents with the birth of their babies at Beyer. They were:

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Curtis of Edison with a 7 lb. 8 oz. girl, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan R. Hammer of Huron River Drive with an 8 lb. 8 oz. boy,

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hurley of Maple Drive with a 7 lb. 11 oz. boy, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Pulley of Arthur Boulevard with a 7 lb. 8 oz. girl and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Puckett of Ayres with a 6 lb. 12 oz. girl.

Dial down. It adds up.

Dial down your thermostat and you'll save money. All you have to do is consistently maintain lower temperatures in your home.

Let's look at a few facts.

1. You can save about 3% for every degree you permanently dial down during a heating season. For example, set your thermostat back five degrees, leave it there, and you'll save about 15%.
2. If you regularly set your thermostat back each night, you can save, too—more than 1% for every degree dialed down for an eight-hour period. For example, set your thermostat back seven degrees, and you'll save about 9%. Set it back ten degrees and save about 12%.
3. Of course, you can save even more by leaving your thermostat down every day and dialing even further down at night.

4. You can save still more Gas and money by dialing down to 55 degrees while you're away from home for vacations or long weekends.

Any time you dial down for more than five hours you save. Just how much you'll save depends on several factors. How many degrees you dial back. How many hours you maintain this lower temperature setting. And the weather. The colder the weather, the greater the savings.

Our Gas is your lowest cost fuel. Use it efficiently and you'll save even more. So dial down. The savings can really add up. Conserve America's vital supplies of Natural Gas, too.

Michigan Senate urges state to buy cars earlier

The Michigan Senate has asked the state to buy state-ordered vehicles ahead of time to prop up the slumping automotive industry. A resolution approved last week by the Senate urges the state Department of Management and Budget to purchase more than 300 state cars and trucks now instead of waiting until later in the fiscal year which ends next June 30.

Gov. William Milliken has urged the public to buy cars to help the auto industry, even though president Ford says saving money instead of spending is the best way to fight inflation.

Engine studied

The federal government has expressed interest in a claim by two Vermont brothers that they have developed an automobile engine that greatly cuts gasoline consumption while meeting anti-pollution standards.

Edward and Robert LaForce are demonstrating their engine along the eastern seaboard and claim the engine can increase efficiency by two-thirds, sharply reduce fuel consumption and still meet federal emission standards.

"Any system with the potential to reduce automobile emissions while cutting fuel usage needs to be seriously considered," said an environmental Protection Agency spokesman.

Truckers warned

Chrysler Corp. has notified owners of 6,181 medium-duty 1974 and 1975 Dodge trucks that the vehicles may have improperly installed power steering hoses.

Chrysler said it had no reports of failures of the trucks in the field.

Spokesmen added that the hoses on about half of the vehicles involved may rub against the vehicle frame or front engine support, possibly damaging the hoses and causing loss of power steering fluid.

The company said it would modify or correct the condition.

Ford lays off

Ford Motor Co. last Wednesday laid off another 1,800 workers for an indefinite period, according to United Auto Workers Vice-President Ken Bannon.

Bannon said the layoffs were made at five plants across the country and pushed the No. 2 automaker's idle work force to about 45,000.

GM continues

General Motors (GM) said Friday it is indefinitely laying off another 24,000 hourly workers by the end of January, boosting to 64,000 the number of GM workers on indefinite layoffs.

GM added that the new furloughs will result from elimination of second shifts at two of its 22 U.S. assembly plants, elimination of at least one shift at three other assembly plants and changes in production rates.

Unlike a great many other commodities this year, Christmas trees will be plentiful and of good quality, according to forestry specialists at Michigan State University (MSU) in East Lansing.

Dry weather, insect pests and disease problems have not significantly affected this year's Christmas tree crop, says MSU's Dr. Melvin R. Koelling. Lophodermium needlecast disease, which affects young evergreen trees including Christmas trees, is on the increase; but since the disease can be controlled it doesn't present a real problem, he added.

More than 37 million Christmas trees will be used in the U.S. this year, about 90-95 per cent of them grown on plantations. The rest are mostly balsam fir trees which will be harvested from thinning operations in dense Canadian balsam fir thickets.

Michigan is the No. 1 state in producing plantation-grown Christmas trees, supplying 10-12 per cent of the national market. A reputation for high quality has produced markets for Michigan-grown Christmas trees in California, Arizona and Florida as well as other states.

From eight to 10 years are required for a young seedling to become a harvestable Christmas tree. During this time the tree plantations are providing valuable wildlife cover for deer, pheasants and snowshoe hare.

Scotch pine remains the most popular Christmas tree among producers and consumers. It is one of the fastest growing and it keeps better than some other species which may drop needles after cutting.

Cutting your own tree in a designated area is growing in popularity. It's a great family activity and assures you a fresh tree, says Koelling.

Here are some hints to make sure your tree stays green and fresh as possible. When you get it home, cut a fourth to half an inch off the bottom of the trunk and place the tree in water immediately. The tree will consume much water for several days after this cutting, so it should be watered regularly. Keep the tree away from a direct heat source to minimize drying out of the needles.

Van Buren plans class

A cardio pulmonary resuscitation class under the sponsorship and direction of Van Buren Township's Civil Defense Director George Helfner will be held at 7 p.m. Jan. 9 at the township hall, 46425 Tyler Road.

Cardio pulmonary resuscitation training is an essential tool for administering artificial respiration and artificial circulation in cases of heart attack, drowning and some cases of severe shock, according to Helfner.

The January class is open to all township residents. Two previous classes also held at the Township Hall were well attended.

OFFER $200 REWARD—Shown above is an Analog Training Computer (ATC) 510 Flight Simulator used in pilot training. A similar piece of equipment recently was stolen from Virginia Hammond of 48880 Denton Road, Belleville. The unit was taken from Mrs. Hammond's car parked near her apartment. Entry into the car was made by breaking the car's door lock. Mrs. Hammond is offering a $200 reward for the return of the ATC unit with no questions asked. It weighs 37 pounds and is in a yellow and black fiberglass case.

$200 reward offered for stolen computer

A reward of $200 is being offered for the return of an Analog Training Computer (ATC) 510 Flight Simulator stolen from a car parked at Knob On The Lake Apartment complex located at 48981 Old Denton Road in Belleville.

The reward is offered by Virginia Hammond, owner of the flight simulator and representative of the Analog Training Computers, Inc. of West Long Beach, N.J.

Mrs. Hammond, who resides at the apartment complex, recently reported to police that her car was broken into and the ATC unit stolen. Entry into the parked car was made by breaking the car's door lock.

"This distinctive piece of equipment is an Analog Computer designed to look like an aircraft instrument panel," said Mrs. Hammond, who uses the ATC unit in career educational program presentations. "The instruments are not real. None of the parts are re-usable. It is only useful for pilot training," she added. The ATC unit weighs about 37 pounds and is in a yellow and black fiberglass case. Anyone offering information leading to the recovery of the ATC Flight Simulator is eligible for the reward with no questions asked, Mrs. Hammond said. She can be reached at 699-9103.

New beekeepers invited to meeting

With increasing numbers of Western Wayne County residents becoming interested in using honey as a substitute to high-priced sugar, Wayne County Extension Director Don Juchartz has encouraged aspiring beekeepers to attend the annual business meeting of the Michigan Beekeepers Association.

Beginners will be able to get valuable tips on keeping hives at the Dec. 6-7 meeting in the Capitol Park Motor Hotel, 500 S. Capitol, Lansing. Registration for the event is $1.

SNOWTIME HOMES FROM

Snow blankets Western Wayne County. . .

causing shoveling problems. . .

lots of cleaning work . . .

sloppy driving conditions . . . and snow-piled parking lots.

Districts to receive $8 million from state

Ten Western Wayne County school districts will share a total of more than $8 million in their next state school aid payments, according to recently released figures.

Several of the districts also will share $926,548 in federal funds under Titles I and III of the Elementary-Secondary Education Act of 1965 and the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

Local school districts receive state aid payments six times annually. On Dec. 1, Romulus Community Schools will receive $359,390; Van Buren Public Schools, $357,230; Huron School District, $24,510; Cherry Hill School District, $463,500; Inkster City School District, $590,440; Livonia Public Schools, $1,936,030; Plymouth Community School District, $499,150; Wayne-Westland Community Schools, $1,932,580; and Taylor School District, $1,930,180.

Receiving state aid under the Title I program, which funds special education programs for children from economically-deprived homes, are Van Buren Public School, $60,000; Garden City School District, $72,500; Inkster City School District, $295,000; Plymouth Community Schools, $20; Taylor School District, $303,429; Wayne-Westland Community Schools, $89,109; and Woodhaven School District, $11,480.

Wayne-Westland Community Schools will receive $14,773 and Livonia Public Schools will receive $3,743 in federal aid under the Title III program, which encourages local school districts to develop new educational programs.

Vocational Education funds will go to Romulus Community School, $16; Plymouth Community School District, $14; Wayne-Westland Community Schools, $20,323; Cherry Hill School District, $450; Garden City School District, $25,384; Inkster City School District, $20,492; and Livonia Public Schools, $9,815.

Persons desiring to broaden their knowledge of the real estate business and those desiring to further their preparation for the broker's examination administered by the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulation will be interested in Real Estate Institute II offered by the University of Michigan.

The institute, which will be offered in Ann Arbor at the Michigan Union, is one of a series offered throughout the state during the year by the University of Michigan Extension Service and graduate school of business administration.

Further information concerning this institute and others scheduled for a variety of locations in Michigan may be obtained by contacting the Real Estate Program, the University of Michigan Extension Service, 350 S. Thayer Street, Ann Arbor 48104.

Township to add new police cars

The Sumpter Township administration has approved an increase in the township's police patrol car fleet.

Bid proposals for the purchase of two additional police cars now are being accepted by the township. The two new police cars, when purchased, will join the township's present 2-car patrol force.

The bids must be submitted to the township by 5 p.m. Dec. 20. Bid specifications are available at the Township Hall, 23483 Sumpter Rd.

The administration also is accepting applications for the position of township ordinance officer. Applications for this position can be picked up during regular business hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Township Hall.

At the recent session of the township Board of Trustees, Police Cpl. Clinton Brown was promoted to sergeant. He has been a member of the police force for more than seven years.

Three new police recruits recently hired under the provisions of the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) presently are receiving training at the Criminal Justice Institute in Detroit.

The township police force consisting of two sergeants, three patrolmen and three police reserves, is under the direction of Police Chief Terry Williams.

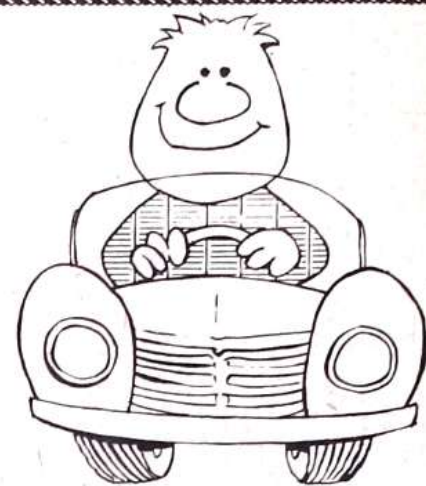

The township also is assisted by the Wayne County Sheriff's Road Patrol Division and Michigan State Police when required.

An unforgettable memory

Hospital worker recalls escape from Hungary

An escape from Budapest, Hungary, during the 1956 revolution always will be a vivid and unforgettable memory for a recently-appointed administrative assistant at Belvil Community Hospital in Belleville.

A brief account of her family's escape from her birthplace was detailed this week by Marta Black, 28, of Westland, who assumed her duties as an administrative assistant to Belvil Administrator William E. Hinchey several weeks ago.

Mrs. Black came to the United States in April 1973 from Birmingham, England where she lived "16 happy years." She and her husband, Ray, were married while living there.

Mrs. Black's parents and a brother still reside in Birmingham. She also has one brother, Gabor, living in the Belleville area.

In recalling and describing her family's escape from Budapest, Mrs. Black told the following story:

"Suddenly there was a revolution. I was 11 years old, living in Budapest. I remember it as a bleak October day," she said.

"My father arose at 5 a.m. every morning," she continued. "He turned on the radio and all we could hear was a special announcer pleading for help from the free world. Then the national anthem played over and over again.

"The nation faced many hardships in the weeks to follow, much worse than during its previous existence. The many that fought were brave.

"My family like countless others witnessed tragic horrors during this time. Then, for us, the decision was made, the long awaited chance to escape had arrived," she added.

"On Christmas day in the early hours of the morning, we set off on our journey of a lifetime," she said. "The streets were deserted. I had my last glance at the lovely city, my birthplace.

"On Dec. 26 we crossed the Austrian-Hungarian border. It was an experience that will live in my memory forever. The first village we entered in Austria was Glostermarienber. The people of that tiny village welcomed us with all their love and compassion, as did the rest of the world.

Countless voluntary organizations helped the Hungarians who escaped. Later we were placed in a refugee camp in Linz.

"We felt, we had the greatest gift, Freedom," she continued.

"After many weeks in

Linz, we were moved to another camp in Vienna. There our destination was decided," she added. "The country was to be Turkey. However, fate did not allow us to go there, so then it was decided that we would go to England.

"The long journey began once more. From Austria we went to Germany then to Belgium. There we boarded a boat bound for England. We sailed across the English Channel. It was the first time I saw the White Cliffs of Dover. On March 5, 1957 at dawn we stepped on English soil.

"We were transported to yet another refugee camp where we spent another few weeks, then in the summer we were moved again to Corsham, Wiltshire in the south of England. I remember that as the most beautiful carefree summer of my life.

"My father found a job and on Christmas 1957 we were placed in a modest little house in the City of Birmingham, England. To us this was everything and heaven. And so our life began.

"My brother and I were placed in appropriate schools to continue our education. It was very hard at first, because we could not speak a word of English. However, like most children, we learned quickly.

"I shall always have tremendous admiration for my father for his courage, and also I will always be grateful to the many people who helped us through those times. They will never be forgotten.

"I lived 16 happy years in England in which time I became naturalized. Then, after all, my destiny was bound for another vast and wonderful land: the United States of America.

"I married here and after the authorities granted me permanent residency, I was able to settle happily," Mrs. Black concluded.

Scouting staff hears program on international life styles

A new international living program for Girl Scouts was introduced Nov. 20 to 30 Girl Scout troop leaders, troop services directors and staff of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council. Lucy Young, director of International Department of the national Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., was a special guest at the meeting.

Ms. Young visited the local council which provides Girl

Scouting for Livingston, Washtenaw, western Wayne and northern Monroe counties to gather ideas for building International understanding to pass on to the other 361 councils throughout the United States.

The new program will award 12 Girl Scouts year-long visits abroad partially funded by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. A local organization, Youth for Understanding, will coordinate arrangements for the program.

CURRENTLY 150 Girl Scouts from throughout the United States travel abroad for shorter stays each year. The new program will be an addition to these.

All are partially financed by the Juliette Low World Fellowship Fund, a fund to which three million Girl Scouts contribute each year. Money from this fund also goes to aid Girl Guide organizations in other countries.

The publication in January of a new book describing all International education opportunities for Girl Scouts was also announced.

Leaders attending the meeting reported on international understanding activities being conducted by local troops. These included troops' imaginary trip around the world, talks by international university students about the lives of girls in their home countries, trips to Canada, foreign pen pals, attendance at the University of Michigan World's Fair and international dinners and other activities.

Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. cooperates with Experiment in International Living, Operation Crossroads Africa, American Youth Hostels and American Synagogue Council in international visitation programs.

JUST ONE OF THE KIDS — There's rather an unusual member of Nancy Horst's second grade class at Denton Elementary School. He twitches his nose a lot and likes to run figure 8's in and around peoples' feet and is not only "teacher's pet" but the entire classes as well. His name is "Fuzz Top" and he's a seven-month old rabbit who was given to the class last spring by another Denton School student, Tom Ley, when he was just one month old. Kim Sykes, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Sykes of 5365 Denton Rd., Belleville, helps "Fuzz Top" pose for his picture. The children take turns caring for him and they each have a chance to sign him out and take him home for the weekend.

Bokon-Talaga exchange vows in rite

A week-long honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains followed the Nov. 2 marriage of Elizabeth Ann Talaga and John Michael Bokon, both of Belleville. The couple are now making their home at 476 W. Columbia Ave., Apt. 3, Belleville.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church was the setting for the 2:30 p.m. ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Talaga Jr. of 192 Clarence St., Belleville, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bokon of 21805 Elwell Rd., Belleville.

Arrangements of white carnations, mums and irises adorned the altar as the Rev. Robert Sabel presided at the double ring nuptial rite. Mrs. William Emerson of Belleville was at the organ to play bridal selections.

GIVEN IN marriage by her father, the bride appeared in an A-line gown of white silk fashioned with a high neckline accented with sequins and beads and long, full sheer sleeves. A cathedral train with the same trim added back interest to the dress.

Her lace-trimmed veil, cut in mid-back length, was caught to a cap of sequins and beads. Cascading white carnations and roses, interspersed with yellow sweetheart roses and baby's breath, completed her ensemble.

Susan Talaga of Belleville was her sister's maid of honor in a dark blue velvet halter dress with matching jacket trimmed in white. Her bouquet was comprised of white sweetheart roses, carnations tipped in blue and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Ronald (Diana) Campbell of Belleville, the bridegroom's sister, who was in a deep purple ensemble like that of the honor attendant, and Jackie Bokon, his twin sister, who was in deep red.

PENNY HOWARD, the three-year old daughter of the William Whites of Belleville, donned a white satin frock for her role as flowergirl. The little white wicker basket she held was filled with white sweetheart roses, baby's breath and carnations.

Seven-year old Randy Martin, son of the Fredrick Martins of Belleville, carried out the duties of ringbearer.

Jim Bentley of Belleville was best man and ushers were the bride's brother, Anthony Talaga, and the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Ronald Campbell, both of Belleville.

The bride's mother wore a powder blue and white formal to which she pinned her corsage of yellow sweetheart roses and blue-tipped carnations. Mrs. Bokon, the bridegroom's mother, chose to wear a red crepe formal for the occasion. Her wrist corsage was made of carnations tipped in red and yellow sweetheart roses.

THE BRIDEGROOM'S parents hosted the reception which was held that evening at the P.N.A. Lodge in Belleville. Some 300 relatives and friends attended.

A 1973 graduate of Belleville High School, the new Mrs. Bokon is employed by the Ford Motor Company at Rawsonville. Her husband is a 1972 alumnus of Belleville High School now employed as a mechanic at Martin and Son of Belleville.

Officials must change policy

A fresh look at federal and state public policy relative to women in Western Wayne County is needed for a number of reasons.

Despite equal pay legislation, the median earnings of women workers remain less than 65 per cent of the median earnings of male workers. Women also are changing their lifestyles, patterns of employment, and allocations of time between paid employment and child-rearing.

These arguments were put forward by Mary E. Corcoran, a doctoral candidate in social policy at Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). This winter she will teach a seminar on public policy on women at Michigan State University.

EXPLAINING HER plea for a systematic examination of public policy Miss Corcoran pointed out that women today are having fewer children and are spacing the children closer together.

"These changes result in a smaller part of women's time going to child-rearing and a greater availability of time for paid employment, both continuous and in segments," she said.

Much of the pay differentials between women and men can be attributed, to the fact that many women work in jobs which traditionally are assigned to women and are lower-paid, she added.

Her doctoral research at MIT compares work histories of men and women and seeks to determine the degrees to which such factors as education, job tenure and years of work experience are major influences in the male-female wage differential

Wedding planned for next spring

The engagement of their daughter, Sharon Marie Sikes, to Gerald D. Romanowski is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Sikes of 21500 Elwell Rd., Belleville.

The bride-elect, who is planning an April 4 wedding, is a 1969 graduate of Belleville High School now employed at Surf Air, Inc. at Metro Airport.

Her fiancé, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Romanowski, resides at 20086 Churchill St., Trenton. He graduated in 1967 from Theodore Roosevelt High School in Wyandotte and in 1971 from the Detroit Engineering Institute. A member of the Rockwood Jaycees, he is employed at the Ford Motor Company's Woodhaven Stamping Plant. St. Joseph Catholic Church in Wyandotte has been reserved for the spring wedding.

Tots visit airport

The youngsters of Huron Countryside Cooperative Nursery were privileged to tour North Central Airlines at Metro Airport on Nov. 18. Some children had their first experience riding a bus from the parking area to the terminal. Inside they saw samples of tickets and how baggage is checked in, transported on conveyors to the ground floor and placed on trucks for eventual loading on the plane. The boys and girls were shown the baggage claim area and how a passenger uses tags to identify his luggage.

Everyone went through security check, boarded a plane, selected a seat and buckled up as if ready to depart on a journey. In the cockpit they viewed all the gauges, clocks, and "buttons," (as one participant described it.)

The tots especially enjoyed witnessing several take-offs and landings which completed their tour.

Tooth mystery teaches lesson

The fourth grade class at Sumpter Elementary School completed a recent dental health study project with a play entitled, "The Tooth-paste Mystery."

In the play, the students put tooth decay and those responsible for preventing it on trial.

After all defendants were heard, the plaintiff a teenager, was found to be the culprit. The jury's decision was that people must go to the dentist every six months to prevent tooth decay.

The cause of tooth decay does not belong to the dentist, nurse and or public health personnel, but to the individual who fails to get proper treatment and practice good tooth care the jury, composed of class members, said.

In the play, Jennifer Dapsi acted the role of judge and Denise Davis played the teenage plaintiff.

NEW TEACHERS HONORED—The Kiwanis Club of Belleville recently sponsored a "Meet the New Teachers" night. Three local Kiwanians discuss the dinner program for the new teachers.

New consumer book outlines car mileage

Potential buyers of 1975 cars in Western Wayne County should find out how many miles they can expect to get from that particular model before laying down their first payment.

An economical car, on a 500-mile trip, can save as much as $13 when paying 58 cents a gallon for gas, according to spokesmen for the Consumer Product Information Center.

To help consumers buy a car with good fuel economy, the Environmental Protection Agency, in cooperation with the Federal Energy Administration, has compiled the "Miles Per Gallon Ratings for 1975 Cars."

Single copies of the pamphlet are available free from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

The booklet lists the estimated city and highway miles per gallon ratings for all new cars that meet 1975 emission standards and are certified for sale in the United States as of Sept. 15, 1974. Each car's engine size, number of cylinders and type of fuel system are described.

In addition, the listings indicate whether the car is equipped with a catalytic converter.

The pamphlet is one of more than 250 publications listed in the current issue of the "Consumer Information Index."

BEST OF EVERYTHING — Installing quality wood windows with insulating glass such as these ponderosa pine casement and fixed units enables a homeowner to enjoy the view while keeping heating and cooling costs down.

Visual appeal is key factor

Most houses in Western Wayne County may not have as many windows as a southern plantation, but the kind of windows they have is still important in the house's individuality.

Windows add eye appeal to both the outside and the inside of a house, contributing to the modern or traditional appearance.

Bright-colored shutters give warmth to the outside appearance of a house. When INSIDE VIEW—Moveable shutters of ponderosa pine admit light and air, but still permit privacy. Closed, they add an attractive design feature.

Shutters provide look of distinction

As any aging film actor or actress can tell you, a "face lift" can do wonders for the marketability of their most precious commodity—appearance.

When it comes to housing, any local lumber dealer can tell you that installing shutters can provide a colorful, decorative and handsome accent for windows and doors, giving the entire home a new look.

Shutters blend well with any architectural setting, ranging from Colonial to modern.

Even more important is their availability as up-to-date, low-maintenance units. Perma-Shield shutters manufactured by Andersen Corporation of Bayport, Minn., are made of tough rigid vinyl applied to a preservative-treated and painted wood sub-frame so they require no painting.

Also available are door-height shutters for entryways.

Mounting hardware is factory-applied and pre-drilled, making shutter installation an easy weekend project for any do-it-yourselfer.

All styles are available in stock sizes of ponderosa pine at local lumber dealers, building supply stores and home centers.

Because modern windows are built in factories under strict quality controls, they provide precision-fit and easy installation.

Of home windows Planning results in correct choice

Careful planning is the key to installing good windows, whether you're building a new home or remodeling an existing one.

Several factors other than cost should be considered in the selection of windows.

They include light, ventilation, view, weather-tightness, ease of operation and low maintenance.

Also location is important. In kitchens, for example, windows should help disperse heat and odors from cooking and should be readily accessible from sink and countertops. A window over the sink, where mothers can easily oversee backyard activity of children, is rated highly by most women.

Casement windows, which are easily opened and closed by rotary operators and which open out 90 degrees to provide top to bottom ventilation, are favored in hard-to-reach locations such as over kitchen sinks and bathroom fixtures.

Windows in living and dining rooms usually are larger than in other rooms of the house, and are located lower in the wall so that persons will have unobstructed views while seated.

Bedroom windows, on the other hand, usually are smaller and located somewhat higher in the wall for privacy.

Family, living and dining rooms are favored locations for gliding patio doors.

PARQUET ELEGANCE — In many cases a simple change in floor style is all that is required to transform an ordinary living room into an elegant, distinctive one. Shown here, for example, a magnificent parquet hardwood floor covering lays the groundwork for a comfortable conversation area with Americana flavoring. Exposed hardwood throughout the room, in the chairs, tables and footstool, add to the overall warmth of the setting.

In growing trend

More singles seen buying homes

While home buying is still largely a family affair, a growing trend to ownership of homes and condominiums by single persons is being seen across the nation. Figures from the Department of Housing and Urban Development show that 5.5 per cent of mortgages on existing homes insured by the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) in 1970 went to single males and 4.5 per cent to single females to account for 10 per cent of the total. Male singles accounted for 2.8 per cent of new home loans issued in 1970 and female singles for 2.5 per cent. Figures for 1973 show a marked increase. Single males last year accounted for 7.3 per cent of FHA-insured mortgages on existing homes while 7.7 per cent went to single females for a total of 15 per cent. Of all new home loans issued in 1973, 4.5 per cent went to single males and 4.1 per cent to single females.

Realtor members of the United Northwestern Realty Association (UNRA) have noted greatly increased interest among singles in this area in moving from rented quarters to a home of their own. One main reason, as UNRA sees it, is the growing realization by singles that tax deductions and equity buildup in these days of rising prices make home ownership a sound investment.

With young people better educated and more affluent than ever before, they have the earning and credit power to meet home ownership requirements and have thus established a favorable image in the mortgage lending market. The availability of government-backed loans from FHA and the Veterans Administration has also been an important factor in bringing singles into the market and many are taking advantage of low down payments offered on conventional loans.

In some areas of the country, singles are participating in a new system of flexible payment mortgages which permits smaller loan payments during early years of the mortgage with larger payments later on when incomes have increased.

Many lending institutions also now permit single roommates who decide to buy a house or condominium to use both salaries as a base in applying for a loan.

Increasingly, builders and developers of condominiums are aiming their marketing focus toward singles and note that many of the young buyers are moving to escape the "swinging singles" element found in some apartment complexes.

They also report that, whether home or condominium, single buyers seem to take special pride in decorating their surroundings to their own tastes and to enjoy the privacy their new homes offer.

Fireplace wood could be 'buggy'

If you feel a little buggy seated before a cheery fireplace on a cold winter's night, you may be.

It might have something to do with the wood. So be careful about storage unless you don't mind a back to nature movement across your living room floor, says Donald C. Cress, Michigan State University Extension entomologist.

Frequently homeowners will find wood dwelling insects such as carpenter ants, Pennsylvania wood roaches, the long horn and the short horn wood borers, or power post beetles appearing in their home, Cress continued.

He said the insects emerge from the fireplace wood (their natural host) as household temperatures rouse them from what would have been a normal winter's sleep.

"These insects are not uncommon in dead or dried wood, the type usually used in fireplaces. They normally live their life cycle in soft or hardwoods. Some have one generation per year, others require two or three years to complete one generation," Cress added.

The cycle starts with adult insects laying eggs on the bark or wood surface. When the eggs hatch, the larvae start boring around inside the wood until they reach pupae stage and then eventually develop into adults. They in turn emerge from the wood and restart the cycle.

"Mother nature normally brings the adult insects out of the wood when spring temperatures rise. But homeowners, by storing wood in their basement or living room, trigger the adult insect emergence. They are really conflicting with mother nature's plan, and you know how that story goes," Cress continued.

Even though the insects may start crawling or flying about the house in zesty search for something to bite, they aren't likely to chew your house down or swallow the settee.

"Generally, they can be considered a nuisance. These insects are not likely to attack wood which has been treated with paint or varnish.

Fledgling 'Phoenix' to fly on campus

How do you start a drama group with practically no funds, no rehearsal rooms, no stage, and uncertain interest? Susan Flierl, instructor in speech at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, (UM-D) admits it isn't easy, but she says it definitely can be done. The first production of the fledgling UM-D drama club, Christopher Fry's "A Phoenix Too Frequent," which premieres Dec. 8, should prove her point and her dedication.

OF MICE AND MEN—The depression-era tragedy, "Of Mice and Men," by John Steinbeck, will open Dec. 11 at the Hilberry Theater on the campus of Wayne State University in Detroit. Starring are Ellen Tobie as Curley's wife and Al Hamacher as Lennie.

When Miss Flierl arrived on the UM-D campus in September, fresh from graduate work in theater and speech at Louisiana State University, she was determined to tap already-expressed student interest in beginning a drama group, despite the obstacles. And the obstacles were many.

"Some of the problems I had expected, such as limited finances," she said. "It always takes a while to get funding for such a new venture."

One problem she wasn't quite prepared for was difficulty in obtaining actors and stage personnel.

"While it's true that students on this campus are very interested in theater, many of them work and just cannot devote the time that is needed in producing a play," she continued. Undaunted, Miss Flierl came up with a solution to the limited personnel pool: she chose a play with a small cast. Christopher Fry's Greek comedy has only three characters, two women and one man.

Other problems had to be surmounted. There are currently no facilities for presenting a play on the Dearborn campus.

"The Henry Ford Centennial Library in Dearborn came to the rescue on this one," said the theatrical artist. "They've agreed to act as co-sponsor, with the drama club, of the production, and they're allowing us to use their stage."

"Now that we had a stage, we were still limited by its size. So we added few props and no special effects as requirements in selecting a play," she continued. "Phoenix" takes place in an underground tomb.

The lack of rehearsal rooms hasn't really been surmounted, the instructor said, but her students are "laboring valiantly in rooms which are smaller than the stage, so they keep bumping into the walls and each other."

While only one of the leads in the play has had acting experience, all, in the view of their director, show "remarkable promise." Lead roles are played by Pat Ursin of Southfield, and Doug Keller and Debbie Sterioff, both of Dearborn.

Miss Flierl sees the new club's major role as "keeping theater alive on the UM-Dearborn campus." Seeking to involve students even more actively in all stages of production, she's currently planning a student-directed production of Sartre's "No Exit" in January.

"We'll probably do at least one other production next semester, although nothing is definite yet," she said. "Student interest has already increased greatly."

Eventually, she hopes UM-D will offer a degree program in the dramatic arts. At present, she teaches two courses in this area: an acting class and an introduction to theater arts.

A native of New York, the UM-D instructor has studied drama at the New School for Social Research, H.B. Studio, and the American Academy of Dramatic Arts. She holds a bachelor's degree from Hobart and William Smith College in New York, a master's from New York University, and is currently working on her Doctorate at Louisiana State University.

"A Phoenix Too Frequent" will be performed on Dec. 8, at 2 p.m. and at 8 p.m. Dec. 9 and 10. Assisting Miss Flierl in the direction is UM-D student Caroline Parker of Inkster. Admission is open to the public, free of charge.

TV GOES HOLLYWOOD—Star of the television hit "MASH," Alex Stevenson, appears in the recently released film, "Three for the Money," now appearing at area theaters. The film also stars Alex Karras and Dean Stockwell, and tells the story of a trio which steals a racetrack ticket machine and to begin a counterfeiting operation.

Camper queen search starts

Applications now are available for the show queen competition sponsored annually by the Detroit Camper Show. Deadline for entries is Jan. 15. The 1975 show will be held Feb. 15 through 23 at the Detroit Artillery Armory.

The lucky young lady, to be named Miss Detroit Camper Show of 1975, will reign over the show, meet the press, appear on radio and television and earn some valuable prizes.

To be eligible, she must be age 15 through 21. She, or her parents, must own a recreational vehicle and she must reside in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb or Washtenaw counties.

Applications are available from recreational vehicle dealers who will exhibit at the show. Or candidates may write to Camper Show Queen Contest, Michigan Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Institute, 19045 Farmington Road, Livonia 48152.

Book World

Bradbury's latest tells of wonder

By RIC BOHY
In this reviewer's eyes, no author writing today can even begin to approach the quality of wonderful fantasy that comes through in most of Ray Bradbury's fiction work.

And his latest book, "The Halloween Tree," does much to keep him in position as dean of today's fantasy-science fiction writers. Released in paperback edition by Bantam Books in October, "The Halloween Tree" takes the reader along on a fantastic trip through time experienced by a band of super-boy trick-or-treaters.

The boys learn, under the tutelage of a fittingly mysterious old coot who lives in a dark gothic structure in the bottom of an equally dark valley, what tradition lies behind the American celebration of All-Hallows Eve.

Their trip begins in search of an ailing friend who very uncharacteristically is not at the helm of their annual Halloween misadventures, and ends in a loss of innocence as the boys find that the traditional observance means more in terms of the dead and dread than sugary handouts.

Those who know Bradbury will not be disappointed with this latest work. Those who don't should use it as a preface to the author's artistry.

For dairymen

Economic future is uncertain

The condition of the economy, recent governmental decisions and dairy product inventories pose an uncertain economic picture for dairymen in Western Wayne County and throughout the state.

Next year's production and sales may be quite depressed, Michigan Milk Producers' Association (MMPA) president Glenn Lake, said recently at the Michigan State University Dairyman's Emergency Feed Conference held at Kellogg Center. More than 400 dairymen were briefed on the industry's future.

"In light of a recessed or depressed economy, high unemployment, consumer resistance to food prices which are constantly inflated by the news media, it is extremely difficult to take a reading on the sales picture," Lake said.

"At best, it would appear that fluid milk sales will drop some below 1974 levels and other milk products might hold at 1974 per capita levels," he added.

Lake said the cost crunch on dairy farms is the most severe in many years, adding that he finds it hard to believe milk production won't drop noticeably.

"Fluid milk sales are down substantially, perhaps the greatest single year's drop in 20 years," Lake said.

Producer price prospects in 1975 will depend on governmental policy, milk production and demand, he continued. Earlier governmental indications that dairymen were going to receive a 13 per cent increase in Class I milk turned out to be "a great big goose egg."

One of the more depressing effects on the milk market has been dairy product imports, which, during the last 18 months, saw 6.9 billion pounds of milk equivalent imported. Lake said it was not needed and most of it was subsidized.

"The manufactured milk product market continues stagnant and has not recovered from the glut of imports. Wholesale butter and cheese prices have recovered some from the low point but the nonfat dry milk market rides on the price support level," Lake added.

Commercial dairy product stocks Oct. 1 equated to 7.2 billion pounds of milk — up 60 per cent from 1973 levels and at an all time high record for that date.

"At year end, I would estimate the carryover inventories of cheese would be around 450 million pounds; nonfat dry milk at 260-300 million pounds and butter at 60-75 million pounds. All carryover stocks will be at least double what they were at the end of 1973," Lake said.

He said he believes if the economy does not worsen too severely, if imports can be curtailed or shut off, if higher price supports can be established and if price controls are not imposed, the milk marketing outlook could improve in 1975.

House passes bill for vets' bonus

The State House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill introduced by State Rep. Edward E. Mahalak (D-Romulus) setting up the mechanics for the administration of the Vietnam War veterans bonuses approved by Michigan voters in the Nov. 5 election.

The bill specifies the bonus amounts and authorizes the state to borrow up to $205 million to pay for them.

Mahalak, chairman of the House Military and Veterans' Affairs Committee, has worked for several years to obtain a service bonus for Michigan men and women who were in the armed forces during the time of the Vietnam conflict.

The bonus bill, passed 84-0 with immediate effect, appropriates $1.2 million to the Department of Military Affairs to start the fund.

Under the bill, eligible veterans are those who:

Served honorably for at least 190 days between Jan. 1, 1961 and Sept. 1, 1973. Time spent in the National Guard or reserves, or in service academies does not count.

Lived in Michigan for at least six months before entering the service or did not abandon their legal status as Michigan residents if outside the state.

— Were not dishonorably discharged and did not receive a similar bonus from another state.

The bill provides payments of $600 for combat veterans and $15 for each month of service for non-combat veterans, to total no more than $450. Survivors of veterans also are eligible for benefits.

Four students 'rough it' in heavy snowstorm

Four Western Michigan University students will always remember southeastern Michigan's worst snow fall in more than 100 years. At least that's what they say.

The four students, all 18 years old and freshmen at Kalamazoo's Western Michigan University, experienced the brunt of the bad snowstorm while returning to the university after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with their parents.

The snowstorm started early Sunday and continued through Monday morning leaving major arteries, side streets and driveways blocked with heavy wet snow and in some instances snow drifts of from four to five feet high.

According to the Weather Bureau, 20 inches of snow fell on southeastern Michigan. The previous record was approximately 24 inches in 1866.

The snowfall closed schools, business establishments, any many of the area's leading department stores, and stranded many motorists on major thoroughfares and expressways in Wayne County.

The National Guard was alerted and in some instances assisted motorists stranded on some of the Michigan freeways.

The four university students — Soula Raptis of 25 Leslie, Mount Clemens; Phillip Haack of Cumberland Road, Mt. Clemens; Chuck Allison of 12895 Martin Road, Roseville; and Janet Kehetian of 14549 College Avenue, Allen Park, the daughter of Mitch Kehetian, managing editor of The Macomb Daily — left early Sunday morning for their return trip to the university.

The four headed for Kalamazoo via I-94. They reported that it had snowed quite a lot and that traffic on the expressway was a stop-and-go affair.

They added that the trip to Kalamazoo usually takes about two-and-a-half hours but after five hours from their starting point in Allen Park they were only near the Belleville Road exit of the expressway.

"We turned on the car radio and heard the expressway was closed and all main roads presented bad driving conditions," said Miss Raptis.

"We were lucky enough to be able to drive off the expressway at the Belleville Road exit and get to a nearby gas station," she continued. "At the station Chuck called his home to get the address of friends that lived in Belleville but was told they had moved elsewhere."

A Belleville police officer, a friend of the Allison family, directed the four students to the Grace Baptist Church.

"On the way there our car got stuck in a snow bank on Charles Street not far from the church," Miss Raptis said.

While trying to remove the car the students were invited to spend the night in the home of Richard and Linda Rochelle of 227 Charles Street.

On Monday the energetic students said they intended to continue their trip back to the university following reports that road conditions were steadily improving.

CHRISTMAS TREE SALE STARTS—The annual Christmas tree sale sponsored by the Belleville Kiwanis Club now is underway at the intersection of Main Street and High Street in downtown Belleville. Promoting the event are (from left) Dave Larabell, Bill Chizmar, Don Meyer, Bert Smith and Frank Herr. Meyer and Smith are both past presidents of the Kiwanis Club. Larabell and Herr are co-chairmen of this year's Christmas tree program.—The Enterprise-Roman photo.

Kiwanis won't raise Christmas tree prices

The price of Christmas trees will average about the same as last year despite an increase of 10 to 15 per cent in cost to the Belleville Kiwanis Club, according to Manley Baldwin, chairman of this year's Christmas tree sale.

The annual Christmas tree sale by the local Kiwanis Club got under way on Monday at High and Main streets in the central business district of Belleville.

The club this year has purchased for sale to local residents 1,200 to 1,500 Christmas trees.

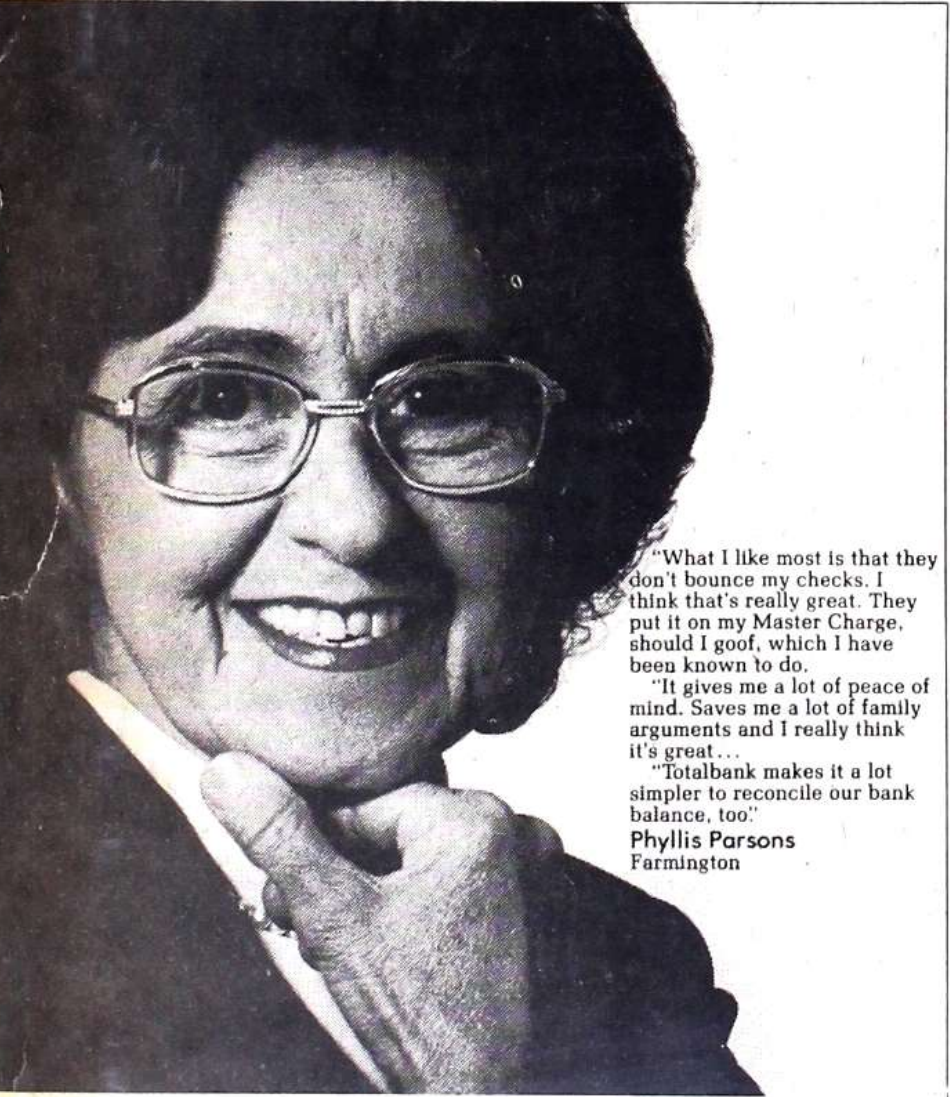

The prices of this year's Christmas trees will begin at $5 and upwards depending on height. The average price of $6 last year will prevail this year despite an increase to Kiwanis of 10 to 15 per cent in the purchase price, Baldwin said.

The proceeds of the Christmas tree sale are used toward various charitable projects of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Ground to break at school site

Groundbreaking ceremonies for The Romulus Community School District's new Wick Elementary School will be held at 11 a.m. on December 7.

The new elementary school currently is under construction at 36900 Wick Road in Romulus.

"What I like most is that they don't bounce my checks. I think that's really great. They put it on my Master Charge, should I goof, which I have been known to do."

"It gives me a lot of peace of mind. Saves me a lot of family arguments and I really think it's great."

Winter entertainment abounds

With winter sports enthusiasts now champing at the bit, waiting for a good snowfall to pave the way for seasonal sports competition,

Michigan once again promises a wealth of entertainment for those willing to travel. And Christmas, as always, will bring its own special magic to the winter scene, with fascinating and entertaining exhibits springing up in cities all across the state.

The enchantment of Fantasyland lightens the hearts and lifts the spirits of all ages through Dec. 24 at Kennedy Memorial Center in Lincoln Park. This annual, old-fashioned Christmas display presents animated scenes, streets of toy shops and candy stores, a circus, giant doll house and don't be surprised to see elves and pixies everywhere.

The City of Marshall reminds us that there is only one Santa and his arrival in Marshall will be heralded by the annual Christmas parade and lighting ceremony on Monday. Because of an annual all-out effort to glitter and glow in the tradition of the season, Marshall has become known as "The Christmas City."

Detroit's Christmas Carnival, Dec. 7-24 in Cobo Hall, is planned for the delight of the little people. The hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and admission is free. Santa Claus himself will host the affair, and to make sure that everyone's wishes are properly received there will be special telephones for young visitors to call directly to one of Santa's helpers.

The spirits of Christmases past are revived each year at Greenfield Village in Dearborn. Village buildings are decorated in keeping with their particular period in history, and the air fills with the happy sound of sleigh bells and carolers and enticing aromas of holiday cookery. Christmas in Greenfield Village and the annual demonstrations of crafts at Christmas in the Henry Ford Museum will begin Dec. 7 and continue through Dec. 31.

Still another yuletide favorite for all is the Christmas Trees Around The World exhibit at the Nature Center in Kalamazoo, Dec. 9-26. Twenty Merry Christmas trees are decorated in the authentic tradition of as many different countries. In addition to the ornamented arborvitae, there will be special displays of Christmas lore particularly related to plants and animals associated with celebrations of the season.

One the action scene, enthusiastic snowmobilers take to the oval and cross country tracks of the Snowmobile Olympus in Ironwood, Dec. 13-15. The Olympus has been rated as one of the top 10 races for the past four years. This year's Olympus will be co-sanctioned by the American Snowmobile Association, Michigan International Snowmobile Association and the Southern Wisconsin Snowmobile Racing Association and governed by MISA rules.

The flash of silver blades on the feet of graceful athletes striking for the finish line will provide thrills and excitement for spectators at the Gold Cup Speed Skating Championships, Dec. 14 in Wyandotte.

Fun, food and games are some of the pleasant "pluses" for snowmobiling families participating in the Snow Country Caravan, Dec. 14 in the Cheboygan Area.

The ice rink will be the center of attraction again on Dec. 15 with the Indoor Speed Skating Championships at Wolverine. More competition is scheduled for Dec. 21-22 when the skaters will line-up for the Motor City Speed Skating Championships at Farwell Field in Detroit.

Those who appreciate the artistry of photography will certainly appreciate the Mary Appelhof Exhibit, Dec. 3-24, at the Institute of Art in Kalamazoo. The exhibit displays the beauty of Michigan's woods

WINTER SPORTS — Speed, grace and agility mesh with the flash of silver blades as speed skaters appear on the winter sports scene throughout the state. Competition skating is just one of many exciting spectator sports that make Michigan a lively place to live during the cold winter season.

State blames birthrate for closing of schools

Nearly 60 per cent of all school closings in Michigan during the past five years were caused by declining enrollments and the trend will likely continue, according to the State Board of Education.

Since 1970, 53 of 91 school closings were attributed to smaller enrollments, Supt

State of Public Instruction John W. Porter said in a report requested by State Board Vice-President James F. O'Neil.

By contrast, enrollment declines caused only two of 29 closings reported for the 10-year period from 1959 through 1969, Porter added. Obsolescence, replacement and freeways account for non-enrollment closings.

The decline in enrollment reflected a decrease in the state birthrate, which peaked in 1957 with 208,000 live births annually, and by 1973 had ebbed to 140,000 live births, the lowest since 1946, Porter said.

Enrollment projections of all grades in Michigan public schools predict a decline from the present 2.1 million students to a low of 1.9 million by 1982. A slight upturn is forecast after 1982, but enrollment is still to be below the 1974 figure by 1990.

Students raise funds for bus

A current drive for funds to finance the purchase of a mini-bus for the First United Methodist Church of Belleville has reached $3,800 of a $5,000 goal set by the senior high school students of the church's United Methodist Youth Fellowship (UMYF).

As the sponsoring youth organization, UMYF hopes to reach the $5,000 goal by Christmas. Funds so far collected were contributed by individuals and groups and include proceeds from a bike-a-thon, handicap fund, adult fellowship and church bazaar.

The administration board of the church has approved the purchase of a 15-passenger mini-bus to be used by the groups of the church including Handicap Ministry. A special ramp is to be purchased for wheelchair patients.

Contributions are welcome, and should be sent to the Methodist Bus Fund, 417 Charles Street, Belleville 48111.

Applicants must file form now to collect ROTC scholarship

High school seniors in Western Wayne County who intend to apply for Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) scholarships should do it now.

Both men and women must submit their completed applications for the 4-year ROTC scholarships before the end of December, according to Lt. Col. Felix Seldon, professor of military science at the University of Detroit.

Scholarship winners may attend any of the 290 colleges and universities hosting the ROTC program. In Michigan that includes nine universities: the University of Detroit, the University of Michigan; Michigan State; Eastern, Western, Central and Northern Michigan; and Lake Superior State.

More than 1000 4-year scholarships will be awarded this year. In addition to providing full tuition and funds for text books and lab fees, the ROTC scholarships pay a monthly allowance of $100.

Upon graduation from college, the ROTC scholarship winner is commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army and is expected to serve on active duty for four years.

The selection of scholarship winners is based upon rank in their high school class, the national aptitude test scores and their extra-curricular activities. Finalists are interviewed by a board of officers.

"The Army ROTC scholarship is one of the few which does not consider financial need," said Colonel Seldon.

High school seniors wanting more information should call the Army ROTC at the University of Detroit, 862-7834.
